Erin Entrada Kelly's Blackbird Fly is a beautifully written and deeply moving novel that explores the complexities of grief, love, and redemption. The story follows Adele, a young girl who is struggling to come to terms with the sudden death of her beloved sister, Clara. Clara was Adele's best friend and confidante, and her death leaves Adele feeling lost and alone.

In the wake of Clara's death, Adele retreats into herself, withdrawing from her family and friends. She becomes withdrawn and isolated, struggling to find meaning in her life without her sister. Her parents, desperate to help their daughter, send her to a grief camp in the hopes that she will be able to find healing and support.

At grief camp, Adele meets a group of other children who have also lost loved ones. Together, they share their stories and support each other through their pain. It is through these relationships that Adele begins to find her voice and to process her grief.

As Adele's journey progresses, she learns the importance of love and forgiveness. She learns to forgive herself for not being able to save Clara, and she learns to forgive her parents for their mistakes. She also learns to love herself, and to appreciate the beauty of life, even in the midst of her grief.
