In Full Measure of Devotion, authors Jeff and Lisa Bevere share the intimate and heartbreaking story of their journey of faith, love, and sacrifice. After losing their first child to a tragic illness, they found solace and strength in their unwavering belief in God. Their story is a testament to the power of faith and the resilience of the human spirit.

Jeff and Lisa Bevere's story begins with the birth of their first child, a beautiful baby girl named Addison. From the moment she was born, Addison brought joy and laughter into their lives. But their happiness was short-lived. When Addison was just six months old, she was diagnosed with a rare and aggressive form of cancer. Jeff and Lisa were devastated, but they refused to give up hope. They prayed for a miracle, and they sought out the best medical care available. But despite their best efforts, Addison's condition continued to worsen.

As Addison's illness progressed, Jeff and Lisa began to question their faith. Why would a loving God allow their precious daughter to suffer so much?

They struggled to understand why their prayers for healing were not being answered. But even in their darkest moments, they clung to their belief in God. They knew that He was in control, and they trusted that He would see them through this difficult time.

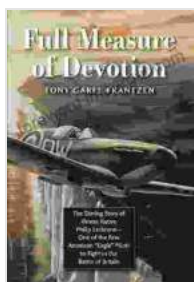

In the end, Addison's cancer proved to be too strong. She passed away in her parents' arms at the age of two. Jeff and Lisa were heartbroken, but they found comfort in knowing that Addison was now in heaven with Jesus. They also found strength in their faith, which had sustained them through this unimaginable tragedy.
