

Jewish Canadians: The Military and World War II

An Untold Story of Courage and Sacrifice

The role of Jewish Canadians in World War II is often overlooked, but their contributions were significant and inspiring. This book tells their stories and sheds light on their experiences during one of the darkest periods in history.

Over 17,000 Jewish Canadians served in the Canadian military during World War II. They fought in every major battle, from the beaches of Normandy to the liberation of the Netherlands. They served in all branches of the military, from the infantry to the air force to the navy. And they made a significant contribution to the Allied victory.
