Some Leaders Wear Lab Coats tells the untold story of women in science, from the early pioneers who struggled for recognition to the modern-day leaders who are making a difference in the world. This book is an inspiring and empowering read for anyone who has ever dreamed of a career in science.

Walsh takes us on a journey through the lives of some of the most extraordinary women in science, including:

- Rosalind Franklin, the brilliant scientist who discovered the structure of DNA
- Marie Curie, the first woman to win a Nobel Prize and the only person to win Nobel Prizes in two different scientific fields
- Jane Goodall, the world-renowned primatologist who has spent her life studying chimpanzees
- Rita Levi-Montalcini, the Italian neurologist who won the Nobel Prize for her work on nerve growth factors
- Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman to earn a medical degree in the United States

These are just a few of the many women who have made significant contributions to science. Their stories are inspiring and empowering, and they show us that anything is possible if we have the courage to follow our dreams.

Some Leaders Wear Lab Coats is a must-read for anyone who is interested in science, history, or women's empowerment. It is a book that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.
