In this gripping memoir, Jacqueline Auriol recounts her pioneering experiences as the first female officer in the French Air Force. She describes her early life and education, her struggles to be accepted into the military, and her eventual triumph as she became one of the most decorated aviators in history.

Auriol's story is one of courage, resilience, and determination. She faced sexism and discrimination throughout her career, but she never gave up on her dream of flying. She became a skilled pilot and engineer, and she set several world records for aviation. She also served as a role model for women around the world, inspiring them to pursue their dreams and break down barriers.

Un Temoignage De La Premiere Officiere is a fascinating and inspiring read. It is a story of courage, resilience, and determination. It is also a story of the fight for gender equality. Auriol's story is a reminder that anything is possible if you set your mind to it.

About the Author

Jacqueline Auriol (1917-2000) was a French pilot and engineer. She was the first female officer in the French Air Force and one of the most decorated aviators in history. Auriol set several world records for aviation and served as a role model for women around the world.

Auriol was born in 1917 in Challans, France. She was the daughter of a doctor and a nurse. She became interested in aviation at a young age and began taking flying lessons at the age of 17. In 1938, she became the first female pilot to receive a commercial pilot's license in France.

During World War II, Auriol served as a pilot in the French Resistance. She flew reconnaissance missions and transported supplies to the front lines. In 1945, she was awarded the Croix de Guerre for her service.

After the war, Auriol continued to fly. She set several world records for aviation, including the record for the fastest speed ever flown by a woman. She also became a test pilot for several aircraft manufacturers.

In addition to her flying career, Auriol was also an accomplished engineer. She designed several aircraft and wrote several books about aviation. She was also a vocal advocate for gender equality and encouraged women to pursue careers in aviation.

Auriol died in 2000 at the age of 82. She was a pioneer in the field of aviation and an inspiration to women around the world.
